infrastructure, cultivates environmental stewardship, and advocates for climate justice on and off campus. It has created avenues for the University to organize past and current sustainability actions and develop additional initiatives in environmental management. Recently, in recognition of these efforts, representatives from the University were invited to an exclusive forum on campus and community-scale climate solutions at the White House. Between the desire of students, faculty and staff to create a better, greener future and the work of XULA Green, Xavier University of Louisiana continues to cultivate a robust community supporting environmental initiatives and creating long-lasting, impactful change.

About Xavier University of Louisiana ranked among the top three HBCUs (historically Black colleges and universities) in the nation. Recognized as a national leader in STEM and health sciences, Xavier produces more African American students who graduate from medical schools each year than any other university in the top producers of African American pharmacists in the country.

Established in 1925, by Saint Katharine Drexel and the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament as a place for African American and Native Americans to receive quality education, Xavier has since expanded its programs in art, business, education, biological sciences, chemistry, pharmacy and political science. More recent additions in robotics, bioinformatics, engineering, data science, neuroscience and genetics, in addition to new STEM- s programs, have provided Xavier students (2,749 undergraduates and 849 graduates) an unbeatable combination of traditional classroom study, hands-on research, service-learning opportunities and life experiences. Xavier students collaborate with world-renowned faculty, who are experts in their fields, to produce award-winning research and notable work. The winning Xavier formula is to provide students with a well-balanced curriculum and an environment that nurtures their intellect and feeds their souls, thereby facilitateiraculty,28e idexp ahnd fee an fudlitcs, mfory,28e eETQ.00000912
